Civil Aeronautics Manual 24

The Federal Aviation Agency has issued a new Part 65--Certification: Airmen Other Than Flight Crewmembers, to become effective November 1, 1962, which supersedes Civil Aeronautics Manual 24, Mechanic and Repairman Certificates, dated December 15, 1959.

This is in line with the FAA's program, announced in November 1961, to recodify its Civil Air Regulations, Civil Aeronautics Manuals, and Regulations of the Administrator into a new single regulatory system of Federal Aviation Regulations. (This program is explained in Part 1--Definitions and Abbreviations [New] sent you in June 1962.)

Therefore, the enclosed new Part 65 completes your subscription to Civil Aeronautics Manual 24. Additional copies of the new Part 65 are available from the Superintendent of Documents at 20 cents per copy.

If you will complete the order blank in the front of Part 65 and forward it to the Federal Aviation Agency, you will automatically receive, without charge, any Changes to Part 65.
